

— UPPER ELEMENTARY LEVEL BOOK LIST —

[Please keep this list for 3 years.]

This list is comprised of many well-known classics recommended for 9 to 12-year-olds. At this age, it is more important than ever that children read books of high quality with complex themes, admirable characters, meaningful dialogue and challenging vocabulary.

Since this list encompasses choices for students up through age 12, some books begin to deal with issues (such as war) which might be frightening to certain children. For this reason, parents should ensure that the content is appropriate for each individual child.

Our children read every day at school during a “silent reading” period and the teacher reads to the class as a whole every day as well. Equally important, children are expected to read for an hour at home each day, with an additional fifteen to thirty minutes reading time when a parent reads aloud to them.

The books on this list are just suggestions, and students are welcome to read other books for their school and home reading times, as long as those books are of similar literary quality (i.e., classics or “modern classics”). Children this age still need a great deal of help in choosing books that will contribute to their literary education, and we ask parents to be involved in the selection process.

Every related study shows remarkable benefits for students growing up in homes with great emphasis on reading good literature. Among the benefits demonstrated by research are preparation for testing and performance in writing ability, language expression, vocabulary, spelling and comprehension. Please help our students choose the best quality books for their reading, and insist that they *establish a daily reading and study habit at home.
